WINCHESTER, Va., November 27, 1909.

State-wide prohibition, which is being discussed in many sections of Virginia, was endorsed at the fourth annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League of Frederick county, which was held in the city hall auditorium yesterday. Resolutions were adopted asking the general assembly to call an election to enable the people to vote on the question, and it is expected other county conventions will pursue the same course. Among those who made addresses at the convention were Rev. Ed. J. Richardson of the northern district and Rev. Charles E. Stuart of the southeastern Virginia district. The meetings of the convention were largely attended and much interest was manifested.

Involving the administration of the big Handley fund of more than a million dollars, the property of the city of Winchester, the case of the board of Handley trustees against the Winchester Memorial Hospital was argued in Richmond this week before the supreme court of appeals. A decision is expected in a short time, and the outcome is awaited with much interest, as the real point of the suit is whether the city council or the trustees shall have the right of disposition of the Handley fund. Judge John Handley of Scranton, Pa., left the bulk of his estate to Winchester for a two-hundred-and-fifty-thousand-dollar library and schools for the poor.

Must Go to Jail.

Maximilian Hirsch, the Harrisonburg horse dealer, who was recently convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to nine years at hard labor in the Virginia penitentiary for killing his brother-in-law, Louis Isaacs, at Harrisonburg, has been denied a writ of error by the supreme court of appeals, and it is expected he will be taken to the state prison next week.

The Geary Hotel property at Woodstock, Shenandoah county, was sold privately this week to John E. Bemis, a lawyer of that place, for $8,000, which includes the furnishings. The Geary Hotel was the headquarters of Federal and Confederate generals during the civil war.

Frank Denver Mitchell, who was paralyzed while serving in the United States cavalry, died this week at the home of his father, James Mitchell, at Marlboro, Frederick county. In his twenty-eighth year. He served six years in the army and had seen active service in the Philippines and other foreign countries. He leaves his parents and several brothers and sisters.

A large fruit show will be held in connection with the annual convention of the Virginia Horticultural Society in this city on January 5 and 6, and according to present indications it will exceed in size anything of the kind ever held by the society. Among those who have accepted invitations to deliver practical addresses during the convention are Col. G. B. Brackett, United States pomologist; Dr. W. M. Scott and Prof. M. B. Waite of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington.

The authorities here have been asked to locate George Fiddler, young son of William Fiddler, a farmer living near Bruce town, a Frederick county, who disappeared from his home early this week. Searching parties have been scouring the country, but the boy cannot be found. It is feared that he has fallen into the hands of kidnappers.

Fire Department Celebrates.

The entire Winchester fire department celebrated Thanksgiving day with a large parade at night. Firemen from Martinsburg, W. Va., were also in the procession, which consisted of about 500 uniformed firemen and every piece of fire apparatus in the city.

Several thousand acres of land which have been cleared of timber by the DeFord Tanning Company of Luray, situated in Virginia and West Virginia, are being made ready for apple trees, it being the intention of the company to engage in the fruit business as well as the leather industry. It is said the new orchard will be one of the largest in the United States.

Rev. A. A. P. Neel, sr., a widely known minister of the M. E. Church South, died a few days ago at his home in W. Va. after several months' illness of tuberculosis of the throat, aged sixty-nine years. He was superintendent of public schools of Jefferson county for several years, after retiring from active ministerial work.

F. P. Staley, the state pure food inspector, has been spending the past week in the Shenandoah valley inspecting four mills, bakeries and grocery stores in general. Particular attention has been paid to firms dealing in country butter, and it is said the inspector will have warrants issued for merchants who are alleged to have sold short-weight milk.

The Hampshire Southern railroad, which is now being built from Romney to Petersburg, W. Va., by wealthy Washington, New York and West Virginia capitalists, will probably be extended to Franklin, W. Va., to connect with another new road, for which a charter has just been granted in Virginia and West Virginia. The construction work is progressing so rapidly between Romney and Petersburg, the believed that the trains will be running long before the time stipulated in the contract. The big steel bridge near Romney has been completed and the concrete work on the Shenandoah bridge is well under way. Work on the trestle buildings has been in progress for the past two weeks. It is said that land is increasing in value rapidly in the vicinity of the new railroad, which will open up one of the wealthiest sections of West Virginia.

Chesapeake and Ohio canal navigation will, it is stated, close earlier this year than usual on account of extensive improvements to be made to the towpath in the vicinity of Shepherdstown. It is expected the water will be drawn off some time next week. A large number of men are now at work getting out stone for the improvements on the five-mile level above Shepherdstown. A temporary railroad track will be laid in the bed of the canal and a dinky engine used.

To Bring Apple Display Here.

The big apple display, which was admired at the recent annual banquet of the North Shenandoah Fruit Growers' Association, will be taken to Washington and exhibited during the sessions of the Southern Commercial Congress in December. It is expected that many fruit growers of this section of the state will attend the congress.

Julius Douglas, colored, has been arrested at Harrisonburg by a post office inspector and held for trial, charged with stealing letters containing valuables from the office box of D. C. Devier, a jeweler of that place.

Over 150,000 pounds of turkeys were shipped from Harrisonburg early this week to the northern markets, and the commission merchants of that place paid out about $25,000 to the farmers. A Keesecker horse thief, escaped from jail at Berkeley Springs a few nights ago by unlocking the doors with a key made of hickory wood. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of his father, Jacob Keesecker, charged with complicity in his son's escape.

SANDY SPRING, MD. LEESBURG, VA.

Special Correspondence of The Star.
SANDY SPRING, Md., November 27, 1909.

Miss Mary E. Gilpin was hostess of the Woman's Association Wednesday. Owing to absences from home and stormy weather, there was a small attendance of members. The guests were Dr. Evans of New York, Mrs. Nathaniel Hogg, Mrs. William W. Moore, Mrs. Charles G. Wilson, Mrs. Robert H. Miller, Mrs. G. H. Wilson, Mrs. Frank Downey and Miss Helen Wetherald. The January session will be held at the home of Mrs. Benjamin H. Miller.

Alban G. Thomas had a large family dinner party Thanksgiving day, and the Misses Dorothy and Gladys Brooke entertained at cards in the evening for their guests, Miss Crommiller and Mr. Mobley of Laurel.

Richard L. Bentley of Baltimore is spending a fortnight with his sister, Mrs. Joseph T. Moore.

Miss Lena Willson and Miss Hattie Idgings, who are studying in Washington this winter, are at home for a few days. Mrs. Ida P. Stabler accepted an invitation to address the educational conference of Virginia, held in Richmond this week, upon the topic of school management.

Miss Wilson, assistant superintendent of the Maryland General Hospital in Baltimore, will be in town for a few days. Mrs. Augustus Stabler was at Conowingo, Pa., for two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. George L. Stabler, former residents here.

E. C. Davis is in Richmond, Mrs. Edward N. Bentley in Philadelphia, Mrs. Robert M. Stabler and Francis A. Thomas in Washington.

Miss Clara A. Moore, who has been in Sandy Spring for several months, has returned to her home in Alexandria.

Miss Anna G. Hogg, a granddaughter of Mrs. Edward C. Gilpin, arrived recently in China on her way around the world with a party of friends. She expects to be absent more than a year.

The Enterprise Club met Friday at Glendare, the home of Malcolm Farquhar, with Asa M. Stabler presiding and R. Rowland Moore secretary. The guests were Roger B. Farquhar, John Thomas, William W. Moore, Frederic Stabler, Frank M. Halliwell, Roger B. Farquhar, Jr., of New York, Samuel A. Young of Virginia and Carl M. Farquhar of Washington.

Asa M. Stabler referred to the proposed effort by Prince George county men to improve that portion of the Laurel road known for generations unfavorably as "sandy bottom." Mr. Stabler was appointed a committee of one to endeavor to interest the commissioners of Montgomery county and urge their co-operation in the movement.

The club adjourned to meet at the home of Clarence L. Gilpin in four weeks.

Fire Takes Town's Main Industry.

SUNBURY, Pa., November 27.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the West branch hat and cap factory at Northumberland, near here, today. The factory was the town's main industry, employing 100 men. The loss is placed at $100,000.
